

A tool to help listening

I found that the most familiar way to observing for me is looking at something

And in our city, there's too many sound making by humanbeings and nature elements, sometimes I feel hard to distinguish the source direction of sound

Try to reinforce the sound on one side at a time?

The sound of wind before & after using

The sound became louder and my ear felt cool wind

Just a diagram, as no one go out with me that time
